

farmer. "I want a barrel of salt. How much does one cost?"

"Ninety cents," was the answer, "and that leaves you 20 cents. What else?"

"I want a paper of pins and two pounds of sugar."

The trade was satisfactory to both sides—a fact due to the protection policy of America that makes salt, free, salt cheap, and pins an American product.

COLUMBUS'S NEW THEATER

Opening Attended by a Party from Here as the Guests of Dickson & Talbott.

The New Theater One of the Finest in the Country—Leased by Dickson & Talbott—It is Opened by Miss Julia Marlowe.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 1.—The Henrietta, the costly new theater built here for Dickson & Talbott by Henry T. Chittenden, was opened to-night by Julia Marlowe, in "As You Like It," before a fashionable audience that filled every one of the 2,500 seats in the house. The theater is a triumph of architecture, rich and simple in its decoration, and perfect in acoustics. The performance was a success in every particular. A party of twenty from Indianapolis, guests of Messrs. Dickson & Talbott, occupied boxes. In the party were James Whitcomb Riley, Frank Bird, E. M. Johnson, Samuel Rauh, Maurice Perkins, William Fortune, O. R. Johnson, V. L. Wilson, B. A. Eaton and Charles O'Boyle.

The new building, built by Mr. Henry T. Chittenden, is a combined hotel, theater, auditorium and business block, and is in every respect a great structure.

The entrance is level with the pavement through large ornamental doors. The visitor ascends an easy incline through the lower foyer, into which these doors open.

A CORNER OF THE MAIN FOYER.

This is one of the most beautiful features of the building, having a floor of marble mosaic, and opening a view through bewildering arches of a warm gray color. To the left near the center a wide stairway rises gracefully, embellished by ornamentation in brass and iron, to the auditorium. At the end of this foyer are three elliptical arches, through which the visitor passes into the main foyer. To the west and north are wide stairways, leading to the theater galleries, and in the center is a beautiful open fire-place of large proportions, set in a jasper mantel. Turning to the left the visitor enters the atrium, passing through heavy ornamental arches, and two sets of swinging doors. The ticket office is in the lower foyer, thus communicating directly with both auditorium and theater entrances.

Within the theater a series of arches decorated in the prevailing colors separate the rear seats from the promenade, which is extensive with the arches, the entire width of the theater. The incline of the floor is admirably arranged for views of the stage from all parts of the house, the seating spaces being divided into the conventional parquette, dress circle and orchestra, with the aisles so arranged as to make all seats as easy of access as possible. There are two boxes, in tiers of three each, on the two upper tiers and four on the lower. To the right and left a beautiful arrangement of decorative pillars supports the proscenium arch. The entire surface of the arch is covered with ornamental plastic stucco work, having the design of the theater leaf, which is the prevailing motif in the design of all the decorative work in the building. The lower tier of boxes is level with the dress circle floor, about five feet above the orchestra. The second tier is octagonal in shape and the third circular. There is a private entrance to each box. Above the proscenium arch the ceiling is decorated with a geometrical design its entire width, from which are suspended four hundred electric lights.

The decorations throughout the theater are in but, brown and gold, blended with exquisite taste and producing a most admirable effect. Over 2,500 electric lights in the theater. Lines of lights are arranged around the three galleries hardly six inches apart, and incandescents without number hang from the ceiling. An admirable arrangement for ventilation has been made above the ceiling, where a big electric fan draws the impure air from below to the outside. The seating capacity of the house is about two thousand.

The stage is one of the largest in the country, having a depth of fifty-one feet, the dimensions of the proscenium being 33x35 feet. Among the most attractive features of the building, from the standpoint of both use and ornament, is the interior of the stage. The whole building is completed, the wood-work, in point of both finish, execution and design, will afford the most admirable and artistic effects. Hard wood is used throughout, and that portion of the work already completed indicates that the whole will be even more pleasing than was anticipated from the original drawings. These were decidedly clever, and many of them novel, and all thus far carried out in practical construction show that the architect's ideas have been followed with due faithfulness and have borne fruit which must be very gratifying to the architects as well as to the general public.

The theater exits are sufficient to empty the house in three or four minutes.

THE SYNOD ADJOURNS.

Not Much Business Left for the Last Session—The New Seminary.

There was little left to do of great importance yesterday at the last half-day session of the German Evangelical Conference, except to thrash through a few lingering matters, bid each other good-bye and prepare to go their different ways.

The presentation of a doubtful legal claim the day before to the convention for collection occasioned an action of the conference to prevent any future recurrence of such a difficulty. Hereafter no person will be able to approach the synod with bills for legal advice unless such advice was sought by the committee created yesterday for that purpose.

A committee was appointed yesterday and empowered to seek all necessary legal advice needed by the synod. The report of the board on church extension was heard and adopted in full. This board helps small congregations to obtain buildings and start new congregations. All transactions and transfers of property under it are secured by proper bonds.

The vote went in favor of the continuation of local church papers. Prof. E. Otto, Elmhurst, and Rev. Jungk, Elgin, Ill., were elected as the literary committee. The new board of directors of educational institutions are the Revs. Hoike, Pfeiffer, Irion, Wolf, Kuntzmann and Klein. All the editors of the different church organs were re-elected, and are: Dr. John. Friedmann, pastor of Becker, Theological Review; Prof. H. Kiemer, Teachers' Journal; Rev. Eryck, Young Friend; and Rev. H. Gendrich, The Session Quarterly. Fifteen thousand dollars was voted for the new seminary to be built at Elmhurst. The question of printing was reconsidered. It was decided to purchase a plant and have the church-night work in this line. The place of holding the next triennial convention was not decided on.

WILL BOYCOTT THE FAIR.

Central Labor Union of Lafayette Takes That Action—The Action Here.

The special committee of the Central Labor Union to which was given the matter of a boycott on the State fair for consideration and action voted to carry out the spirit of the resolutions offered in the delegate body. In accordance with their action, the unions in the State have begun to boycott the fair. A dispatch to the Journal, sent night, from Lafayette, reads as follows:

AN AWFUL ACCIDENT.

Thomas McGrath Has a Coupling-Pin Driven through His Hip.

Thomas McGrath, a Big Four freight conductor, residing at 167 Huron street, this city, had a coupling-pin driven entirely through his left hip, very close to the abdomen, while attempting to make a coupling at Greensburg, Wednesday night. He was cared for at Greensburg last night, and yesterday morning was brought to this city and removed to his home by Plummer & Buchanan, Dr. Marace, who was called to attend the injured man, says that he cannot recover from his injuries. He is a married man, thirty-one years of age.

Central Avenue Bridge. The State Board of Agriculture has been much concerned about the Central Avenue bridge, which is not strong enough to bear the weight of loaded cars. The County Commissioners, it was said, would not contribute more than one-fourth of the expense, and the street-car company would not pay any of the cost. The information reached the executive committee last night, and the County Commissioners had reconsidered the subject and will put the bridge in safe condition.

Thrown from His Horse. Will Blevins, lieutenant of the Governor's Guards, who lives at 230 North Tennessee street, was thrown from his horse last night, at the corner of Thirtieth and Illinois streets, about 9 o'clock. He was unconscious some time after being taken home, but is not thought to be fatally injured.

A Demand Ignored. Receiver Failey, of the Iron Hall, has sent out a circular stating that he will soon call on the Missouri receiver, Mr. Breckenridge Jones, of St. Louis, for the funds of the R. O. of F. Lodge. Mr. Jones refuses to recognize the right of Receiver Failey over the order's funds in Missouri.

Tracks Taken Out. Wednesday night the Big Four company put a large force of hands at work near the viaduct, and yesterday morning all the tracks had been removed from Louisiana street, and the company will decide when the celebration shall be held.

Baby on the Step. Several nights ago a baby was left on the steps of the house at No. 2 Williams street. The occupants did not appreciate the gift, and wanted the County Commissioners had reconsidered the subject and will put the bridge in safe condition.

The Mountains and Lakes of Mars. ARQUIPA, Peru, Sept. 1.—Professor Pickering reports from the observatory here that Mars has two mountain ranges near the south pole. Melted snow collects between the ranges, and flows northward. In the equatorial mountain regions snow fell on two summits Aug. 5 and melted Aug. 7. Eleven lakes were seen near Solis Lacus varying in area from 100 miles to 400 miles. Branching dark lines connect them with two large dark areas like seas, but not blue. The northern green spot has been photographed. Many of Schiaparelli's canals have been seen again.

Old State House Burned. DRES MOINES, Ia., Sept. 1.—Fire today destroyed the old State-house. The building is a complete ruin. The State-house here was built in 1856 and used until 1884, when the new State-house was ready for occupancy. The fire started through the carelessness of a tramp who had been allowed to lodge in the building.
